CLASS PROPHECY

Whenever I wish to have a good night's sleep, I always eat my favorite midnight snack—a large dill pickle with a pint of delicious ice cream, finished off with three glasses of tomato juice and three or four hot dogs, with onions protruding from all sides with a dash of garlic. I had just such a snack last night. Then with a satisfied feeling, I lay myself down for a good night's rest. I had just dozed off when I was awakened by a strange noise. Getting up, I found myself in the center of Hollywood Bowl at Los Angeles, California. I looked around and I was surrounded by a group of familiar faces. It was the Senior Class of 1946. I well remembered graduating with them twenty years ago. In fact, I could never forget that experience. I started mingling with the crowd about me, shaking hands, and recalling pleasant memories, such as the time we studied the great classic, "Macbeth."

Why, who do I first recognize but that successful businessman, Mr. Jack Reed, who has taken the Rock House Market and expanded it until it now covers a big portion of the famous Scottsboro square.

I smell a disagreeable odor. I turn and discover to my amazement that it is my old classmate, Claburn Cobb, who is now a big-shot manufacturer of perfume. His latest is "Seven Nights in a Mule Barn."

I go still farther, receiving handshakes and slaps on the back. I recognize Billy Ferguson and Edward Gross, whom I am told are operating on a large scale a group of country stores. Next, I see Leonard Lockard. Poor man! He's still under the delusion that he is president Dixon of Brookfield College.

Next, I see a familiar face, topped by a redhead, bobbing up and down in the crowd. Why, it is Red Parks, now head basketball coach at University of Alabama. We hear that Thomas Steley and Rupert Proctor have taken over the agriculture department of our Alma Mater. I also see that two Sand Mountain boys, James Tigue and Lincoln Miller have taken Roy Acuff and Ernest Tubb's places on the Grand Ole Opry. David Kelly now owns a chain of large modern theaters over the entire country. And, he has as his able assistant, his one-time employer, Robert Word. I see a large group gathered around a man with a white uniform, I recognize him instantly as Dr. Bobby Thomas, PH. D., D. D., M. D., D. D. T., and L. S./M.F.T., who is telling about his latest operation. Unlike my usual self, I have mentioned only the men. Now we shall turn to the feminine side of the class of '46.

On one side of the bowl I see what looks to be a nursery. Then I recognize two eminent nurses on child welfare. They are none other than Imogene Carter and Sue Bryant. Eleanor McBay gave up marriage to Bill Shelton to go on the screen after many tempting offers from RKO. Then, I recognize the two former inseparable old maids, Phylis Gamble and Clarice McKenzie, who still set bear traps every night in hopes of catching a man yet. I understand that Ruth Woosley, Addie Sherrill and Bernice Gant now own and operate Elmore's 5 and 10 cent store. It is rumored that Jackie Harbin has moved to Hollywood, Alabama, to help run the general store. Dot Bush and Marie Miller now run the new, exclusive beauty shop in Hollywood. I hear that Betty Clyde Hollis and Betty Jo Downey have secured positions as stenographers for Claburn Cobb, Esquire, perfume manufacturer. We have several distinguished educators in the group, the leading ones being Jane Green and Mazette Wilborn. The world is changing all right. Daisy Corneilson, Ann Wilborn, Christine Wright, and Ruth Shelton are now modeling clothes for Gaynell Powell, Christine Outlaw, and Betty Jean Suttles, who own a swanky dress shop on Hollywood Boulevard. I hear that Genevieve Johnson and Loyce Hancock are writing a book entitled "One Thousand and One Ways to Catch a Man." I understand that Ethel Beard and Jessie Brown are now starring in the latest MGM picture "Murder in the English Class." Betty Thomas is cashier for the Rock House Market, North Alabama's largest store. The Anderson girls, Jean and Mary Jean, are now chemists, still trying to neutralize a base. With a terrible pain in my stomach, I awoke. I was so sorry to awake, but not sorry in the least for my ulcers, since I had the pleasure of seeing again the greatest class that ever graduated from dear old J.C.H.S.

Activities

Glee Club

Our Glee Club originated four years ago under our present director, Mrs. Hodges, who has made our Glee Club what it is today.

Not until recent years has any emphasis been put on vocal music in the schools.

Music goes hand in hand with culture. It is the finishing touch or polish to our education.

The Glee Club this year is much larger than that of last year. Each year we put on various types of programs. The three main events this year were the Christmas program, "Cantata," participation in the music festival at Jacksonville State Teacher's College, Jacksonville, Alabama, and our usual spring concert. They all went over well and showed much improvement in the Glee Club since the last programs were given.

The purpose of our Glee Club is to help the students to enjoy school more by learning to recognize and appreciate good music. The object of having more music in school is to enable everybody to become not a professional musician, but a music lover and an appreciative listener, knowing the world's music, as he does its history, poetry, and art. Music is our universal heritage.

Modern education stresses the fact that junior high school students can find satisfaction in using art periods producing a mural to decorate boards with.

Modern education also stresses a vocational education. Most all of our boys are given a survey course in vocational activities and general shop work.

All students in the school are encouraged to take a course in writing. The skill is not only valuable in school, but also in work, such as writing letters, notes, etc., but it is also useful in life, school and out.

IN OUR GAITHERS STUDENTS GO TO DISCUSS AFFAIRS OF THE DAY WHILE ENJOYING JOY FOOD, HOT, WHEEL-BARROW RACES, BUNCH AND BUNDS, AND CLASSIC FRIENDS.

OUR GIRLS ARE GIVEN THE CHANCE TO TRAIN THEMSELVES IN THE ARTS OF GOOD HOMEWORKS.

IN ADDITION TO THE ARTS, THE SCHOOL PROVIDES ALL THE FACILITIES TO DEVELOP THE MINDS OF PAST AND FUTURE. READING IS THE MOST IMPORTANT OF WHICH WE PROVIDE. THE MAIN WAY IS TO BE THE BEST OF ALL IN THE SCHOOL.
