

MOUNTAINEER

*The 1969 Mountaineer
of*

*Section High School
Section, Alabama*

The faces of Section High School are many and varied, but they reflect you, the student body. Yesterday a happy face, today saddened, tomorrow a tearful but eager face meets the world with meek anticipations.

This yearbook has attempted to portray in pictures and words your lives as you have lived them during this school year.

EDITOR: Ellen McKenzie

BUSINESS MANAGER: Barry Rush

The 1969 Mountaineer Is Dedicated to . . .

Mr. Joe E. Wheeler

To one who has given generously of himself in his dealings with his science classes, his untiring work in the Beta Club and junior sponsor, to one who so deserves this honor, we the yearbook staff dedicate the 1969 Mountaineer to -

Mr. Joe E. Wheeler

In Memory of

Irene Young

Because the students, faculty, and friends of Section High School will always remember Irene Young as a real great person, this yearbook is in memory of her.

Students who have gone to Section for twelve years

Class Prophecy

You know I can tell something about each senior by the tracks he makes. Each track expresses the individual and his achievements and what he is doing today. I see this in an individual's foot prints. Our class president Barry Rush went this way. His ambition has carried him from class president to president of a chemical factory which specializes in deodorants. Note those brown brogues. Working at Barry's factory as deodorant tester is Gerald Bell. He has a pleasant air about him you can't fail to notice. His casual slip-ons show his ease in any crowd. Terry Hamlin also owns a thriving business. Terry has the respect of his workers and except for his sneakers he looks every inch a businessman. The smart heels and horn-rimmed glasses of Brenda Roberts pin-point her as Terry's secretary. She makes his life much easier by doing all his brainwork. Billy and Betty Anderson are doing well with their dude ranch. The tracks made by their cowboy boots are easily distinguished. To attract tourists and guests, a band plays there nightly. Wearing golden boots and playing a golden guitar is Bobby Anderson. He is backed by Carolyn Guinn whose patent leather pumps and nimble fingers make a piano come alive. Terry Moore is also a member of this tuneful band. He pats his hush puppies in time with his bass guitar. Dallon Jackson provides a steady beat on the drums. The only offbeat thing about Dallon is that he refuses to wear shoes.

Our class wit, Richard Wilks, now makes his headquarters at Kilby Prison. He's the warden. His clothing and service oxfords are bullet proof.

Speaking of bullets, I see that some of our classmates are pursuing military careers. General Harold Fricks sets a splendid example for his men. His highly polished boots are the pride of the marine corps. Driving the general's staff car is Kenneth Carter, a man whose shoe is heavy on the gas pedal.

Sergeant Merle Pruett is now stationed in Alaska. His crooning voice is quite popular with Eskimo women. The prints of his snowshoes are easily distinguished.

Another man in uniform is Sheriff Bobby Williams. He and Deputy Danny Black are recognized by their neat clothes, and the spit and polish shine on their shoes. They fight a constant battle against intoxication, reckless driving, and other offenses.

William "Rat" Patterson heads the crime syndicate in Bobby and Danny's area. No one can say William hasn't been successful. To make the least noise possible when pulling a job, William wears house shoes.

I see that some of our classmates now wear tennis shoes as a trademark of their profession. Z. C. Sparks and Larry Don Hancock are rival basketball coaches. Billy Jackson watches from the bleachers as Larry and Z. C. match wits. Billy is a college coach and he is scouting for college basketball talent.

I see another pair of rivals; Lynn Williams is head of IGA food store and Mike Hall is head of the Piggly Wiggly food chain. They wear executive brogues as they go about their work.

Jeffery Carter owns a chain of shoe stores and a shoe factory. He and his traveling salesman Tommy Traylor wear different shoes every week. Jeff's efficient secretary, Linda Galloway, takes care of the details of his business. Her low heeled shoes are seldom at rest.

The Class of '69 has certainly had its share of teachers. Yvonna Baldwin is now a hard working English teacher. The soles of her shoes are worn as thin as her patience. She is credited with abolishing the use of double negatives from the English Language.

Gary Smith is now teacher at a well known high school. His brown loafers may be found propped on his desk as he takes a nap.

Professors Patricia Goff and Ellen McKenzie are respected by their pupils. Their foot gear is worn from walking among students looking for signs of cheating. That is why they are respected. Two of our former cheerleaders, Mary Sue Brown and Vickie Griffin, have become college physical education teachers. They still have their old agility. Their tennis shoes need washing and a little foot powder from Rush Deodorants wouldn't harm! Annette Myers has pursued special education. She enjoys working with children but her casual shoes by no means imply that she has time to be casual or relaxed.

Some of our classmates have become engaged in agricultural pursuit. Alan Sharp is a Vocational Agriculture Instructor. His shoes are scarred by nail marks, dented by hammers, and specked with paint.

Mitchell Bailey owns a large dairy herd. Mitchell won an efficiency award for discovering a method of pasteurizing and homogenizing milk before it left the cow. He wears galoshes as he tends his herd.

Roger Bowen writes and draws advertisements for Mitchell's milk. Roger's witty phrase "Drink Milk" increases milk sales 1000%. His loud red shoes denote his advertising talent.

Judy Norwood and Katie Sisk have become famous for their hair style discovery. They rediscovered the G.I. haircut - this time for girls. They wear white flats and the uniforms of hair dressers.

Judy Patterson now sells insurance. Her Motto: Safety first. Her foot gear: roller skates.

Christine Hairston held a policy with Judy's company and became a millionaire when she broke her little finger as she ran from her burning home and wrecked her car trying to reach the fire department. Her costly spike heels exhibit her wealth.

Two girls who are bathed in mink and rolling in money are our own Glenda Thompson and Mary Jo Roden. It's hard to see the type of shoes they wear because of the diamonds which cover them.

Don Newman drives a New York taxi and can dodge through traffic and past cops better than anyone. He wears yellow sneakers with Newman's Cab written on them.

Ann Breland is an accountant for Macy's Department Store. Mr. Macy has promised her the position of head accountant when she learns the difference between a debit and a credit. Her shoes are soft casuals.

Bobby Jones and Travis Yates have turned to building and racing cars. "Speedy Jones" and "Fireball Yates" have become the top competitors in racing today. They wear heavy tennis shoes with STP emblems on them.

I see that two of our classmates have turned hippie. Kathy Arnold and Peggy Anderson are now leaders of the way-out set. They wear regulation hippie sandals.

Some members of the class of '69 have gone abroad. Martha Evans is striving for good relations with other countries. She wears comfortable casuals as she goes from country to country as a diplomat.

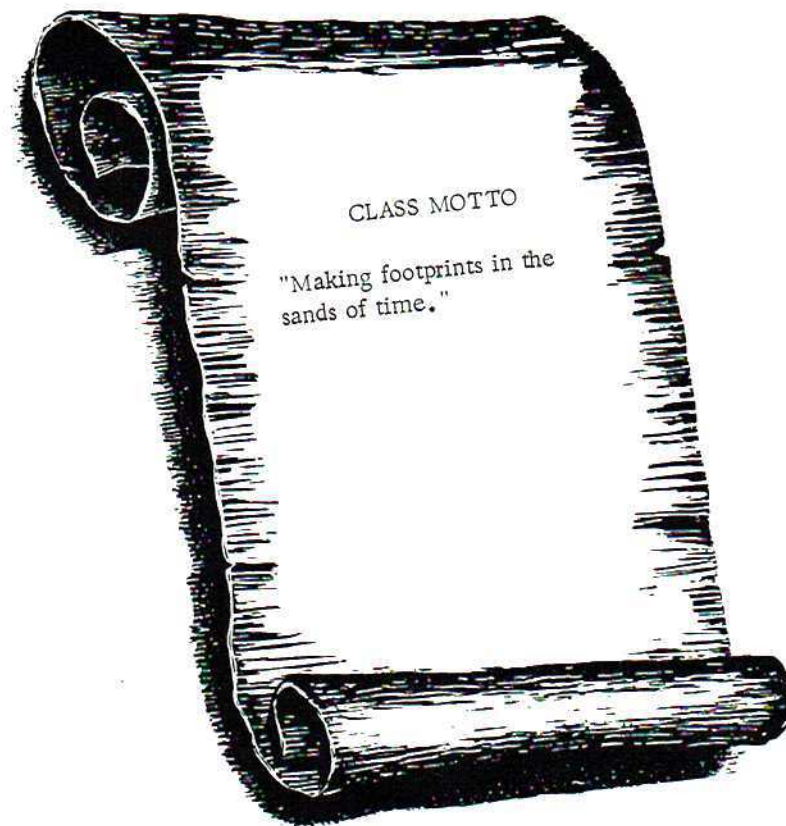

Willis Bolt has achieved fame as a matador. His matador's clothing and shoes are the sharpest in all Madrid. That's no bull!

Judy Downey and Lillie Ruth Bryant have a lemonade stand in the Sahara Desert. Business is booming and their sandals are never idle.

Charlotte Wells and Iris Wilborn are ski instructors in the Alps. They often leave tracks a mile long.

Brenda Sartin and Joyce Townson are marriage counselors here in America. They make use of their experience by holding shaky marriages together.

Our class is made up of people with individual personalities. Each leaves his own unique foot print as his mark in the sands of time.

Many dedicated hours and efforts are needed to publish an annual of which the student body can be proud. This is just what the 1969 Mountaineer Staff has tried to do.

To start the year off right, the selling of ads began in the summer. No staffer can say that the experience of selling ads wasn't fun!

After the advertising campaign ended, the staff settled down to the task of selling yearbook subscriptions. By the end of the school year, one hundred-fifty yearbooks had been sold.

Time, patience, and loads of work were put into planning, picture-taking, copy-writing, and piecing the history of the year together.

The efforts of the Mountaineer Staff are rewarded when the result is finally presented to you - the student body.

players a year ago to Section head coach Red Strickland was fulfilled here Saturday afternoon as the Lions from the Sand Mountain "Basketball Country" of Alabama ran away with the state's class 2-A basketball championship, 77-58 over the all-Negro U.S. Jones of Demopolis entry.

Those underclass varsity players approached a dejected Coach Strickland following the 67-55 loss to the first round tournament. He would have been pleased to see points, a one-game class 2-A hit 17 field goals, another single game mark, and along with 33 points tallied in the two games, ended the affair with 80 record.

Pruett, who was the leading scorer in the early part of the game, tied the score in the first quarter. At that time at 10-all. From that point Prueett, Jackson, Prueett again and Sparks hit field goals for Section while Sam Williams had only a free throw for Jones as the Lions jumped to an 18-11 lead at the first break. Jones got within five points of the Lions in the second quarter but Section twice led by as much as 12 points. Prueett and Sparks scored a total of six points. Against Jones alone the Lions at 42-41, but following a timeout the Sand Mountain lads, with Prueett getting seven, outscored the Demopolis crew 10-3 for a 52-44 margin after 24 minutes. Section led by only 10 points, 66-56, with less than two minutes to play, but Prueett scored 11 points in the final minutes of the contest as the Lions won by a 52-44 margin.
