Our Trip To Tuscaloosa

On May 3, 1951, two bus loads of children from Section Junior High School took a trip to Tuscaloosa. The busses were chartered from Northeast Alabama Bus Lines of Fort Payne. We left Section at 5:30 A. M. and arrived home at 10:30 P. M. Sixty-three children made the trip.

We went by way of Rainsville, Oneonta, and Birmingham. Our first stop was at a service station in East Lake where we unloaded, bought drinks and exercised a bit. We drove through Birmingham and on to Tuscaloosa where we stopped at Foster Auditorium. The caretaker allowed us to spend as much time as we liked in the auditorium.

We walked from Foster Auditorium around the entire campus of the university. We saw all the administration buildings including the sororities and the fraternities, Dennis Chimes, Library, and the president's home. We were much impressed with the library at the university which contained some two hundred thousand volumes. Some of the staff workers showed us through and explained to us all the various departments.

It was the annual inspection day for the R. O. T. C. by officers of the United States Army. We were fascinated by the drill and parade of R. O. T. C. in review.

We drove out to the city park and ate lunch. We spent a little time here using the playground equipment.

In the afternoon, we drove through the city of Tuscaloosa and visited Bryce Hospital and the Partlow School for feeble-minded. We learned that Bryce Hospital was built to care for twenty-five hundred, but had over four thousand inmates. As far as we could tell, however, they seemed well cared for. An approaching rain storm prevented our going through the building at Partlow School but we did drive through the grounds. The surroundings at both places were most attractive.

We drove out to the paper mill, but we were so late in getting there we didn't get to go through. However, we visited their snack bar and bought us something to eat. The odor from the paper mill was most offensive.

We drove back to Birmingham through a hard rain and saw much evidence of a wind storm. We left our busses in a parking lot near the Alabama Theater, and walked many blocks visiting a number of places.

We went to Pizitz's and rode the escalators. We enjoyed this because most of us had never ridden one. We went to Woolworth's to buy souvenirs and two girls got locked in when closing time came. Other places that we visited were: Tutwiler Hotel, Jefferson County Courthouse, Municipal Auditorium, Grey Hound Bus Station and City Hall.

It was a great privilege for us to have seen the art exhibit at the City Hall. There were a hundred paintings on display by some of the world's most famous artists. This exhibit was sponsored by a Ladies' Club of Birmingham and had been borrowed from the Art Museums of New York City and Philadelphia.

We didn't have time to visit all the places of interest, but we realized that the city had many beautiful public buildings to be proud of.

We drove out to East Lake and ate supper, and when we reloaded our busses this time we were on our way back home. We were a tired but happy group as we arrived home, hoping that we could make a similiar trip next year.
